WILDCAT GRIDSTERS ARE GUESTS OF PEP-CATS AT BANQUET

President Engelhardt and Other Dignitaries Address Gathering in Dining Hall

The most successful football team in the history of the university was feted for the third time when the Pep - Cats, student booster organization, tendered them a banquet in Commons last Monday night, with a rather small gathering of faculty members and students in attendance.

After a turkey dinner had been served, the speaking program was opened by Peter Wellenberger, chairman of the Pep-Cats who welcomed the assembled guests and the football players in behalf of his organization. Major Donovan Swanton, serving as toastmaster in a very capable and humorous manner, introduced the other speakers, namely: President Engelhardt, Coach Sauer, Coach Justice, Director of Athletics William H. Cowell, Captain Edward Little of the football team, William Marsh, trainer of Wildcat athletes, and George Stenzel, president of the Student Council.

In congratulating the team for their fine work during the season, President Engelhardt stated that he had attended every game but the Maine contest and that he had missed that one only because he was busy being inaugurated. He deplored the small attendance at the banquet and declared that every student and every member of the faculty should have been present. The president then went on to describe his plans for improving the community singing at the University; he said that even if it were necessary to add a community singing instructor to the faculty, that he would bring about this improvement.

At the conclusion of his speech, President Engelhardt awarded appreciation certificates, which had been donated by the Pep-Cats, to the football players.

This was the third banquet which has been given for the Wildcats this season. They were the guests of the Springfield Alumni in that city following the final game of the season with the Gymnasts, and on the 19th of November, the Manchester Alumni played hosts to them at the Rice-Varick Hotel in Manchester.

CELEBRATE SIGNING OF CONSTITUTION

Two members of the faculty of the University of New Hampshire, will represent the University in the national sesqui-centennial celebration of the signing of the American constitution in a broadcast over radio station WHEB in Portsmouth, December 6.

Dr. Thorsten V. Kalajarvi, Associate Professor of Political Science, gave the first address in October, in a radio series that brings little known historical information to the public. The radio series are concerned with the knowledge and use of medicine, farming problems, and other industries and professions of the Revolutionary period.

In the second program, Donald C. Bab-

1825 Scholastic Warnings Issued to U.N.H. Students

1825 notices of grades below seventy were sent to the 1738 students enrolled in the University. Of these notices 1103 were between sixty and seventy, with the remaining 722 below sixty. 697 men, approximately 56% and 240 or 44% of the women received warnings. This is a slight improvement over last year, when over 2,000 notices were issued.

Military Committee Honors Alice Davenport, Elizabeth McNamara as Cadet Majors

Lois Hudson received a majority vote for the much heralded position of Cadet Colonel of the annual Military Ball. At the intermission of the ball she will be presented, making her appearance with Captain Martin Verville. The officers of the campus military society have also chosen Alice Davenport and Elizabeth McNamara for her aides, and they will occupy seats next to the Cadet Colonel.

Officers Pledged

In addition to the presentation of the honorary Cadet Colonel and Cadet Majors, twenty-five junior officers will be formally pledged into the honorary military society. These officers have been chosen by the officers of Scabbard and Blade for their proficiency in military science. They will be honored by a tap on the left shoulder from the sabre in the hand of the Cadet Colonel. After this they will form a line in back of Captain Martin Verville, and proceed to march under the arch formed by the sabres of the senior officers of Scabbard and Blade. The pledges are: George Abbott, Pierre Boy, Roger Bruford, Robert Farr, Maurice Fournier, Louis Frank, Marry Hatchell, Paul Horne, Arthur Little, Gordon Martin, Robert Nash, Donald Otis, Raymond Patten, Howard Platts, William Quinn, Robert Spaulding, Adelbert Teague, Frank Tenney, Harrison Thyng, Gordon Tibbets, Peter Urban, Walter Webb, and Steve Zagreski.

The chaperones for the ball will be: Colonel and Mrs. Putney, Major and Mrs. Prindle, Major and Mrs. Buracker, Major Swanton, Captain and Mrs. Devens, and President and Mrs. Engelhardt.

Dick McGinley Plays

Music for the evening will be furnished by Dick McGinley and his famous New England orchestra. Miss Peggy Wood, song bird of the Atlantic Coast, will accompany McGinley's orchestra to New Hampshire. There are eleven maestros in his band; and each one is individually known for his musical abilities, and McGinley is well known in the harmony world for his clever arrangements. The orchestra will commence the evening with an hour of concert music.

The gymnasium will be principally decorated with flags and streamers. During the intermission regular army officers of the Military Science department will present commissions to the senior officers.

Those who wish to see the ceremony will be charged a small fee for admission to the gymnasium balcony.

NOTICE

The Bureau of Appointments announces that in the future the information concerning all companies whose representatives visit the campus for the purpose of recruiting seniors for June employment will be on reserve at the Reference Desk in the Library. Those seniors who are to interview the Eastman Company representative on Monday, December 6th, should read this material before that date.

GLEE CLUBS PRESENT XMAS CAROL SERVICE

Rehearsals are being held for the fourteenth carol service which will be given by the combined glee clubs. The service for which there will be no admission charge, is to be held in the men's gymnasium at 8:15 on December 15th.

The clubs will sing a group of carols, choruses, motets, and hymns. The program, consisting of both familiar and unfamiliar carols, will present two interesting arrangements of the old familiar carols "God King Wencelaus" and "The First Noel" with descants, the old medieval principle of weaving an obligato melody against the principle one.

Sociology Club to Test New Theories

"Subjective Social Stimulation" will be the topic for the next meeting of the Sociology Club which is to be held at the Alpha Xi Delta House, Monday, December 5.

There will be a discussion of and attempts at testing some of the newer theories concerning societal contact and interaction. Only members of the Sociology club are invited.

Who Thirst After Knowledge

Should every creature drink
but I;
Why, men of morals, tell me why?”

Whether the present nearly year-old drought on campus is a resolute and predetermined back-to-nature movement or not is impossible to decide. But absence of bubblers or even supplies of paper cups near the few handy water faucets has certainly taught many dry throated and parched professors and students that they can overcome the drawbacks of lives which have been softened by modern conveniences such as ball bearing well pumps, streamlined bubblers and ultra-modern drinking glasses.

For all students who lack the elemental training in overcoming inconvenience we heartily recommend, at no extra charge, Professor Abdul K. Stretchandgetit's hardy and practical three credit course in Stoopydripology 2 for the coming semester. Only underclassmen will be eligible for the astounding course, it is understood, because seniors no doubt will be entering a world made replete with drinking facilities, etc.

The study will be divided into two sections. Muscular giants with hammy hands will be expected to concentrate on section 1 in hand to mouth imbibing, UNH 1936-37 and perhaps (?) 38 style. For the more supple aspirants Prof. Stretchandgetit will present the head-under-faucet section. The latter division contains a week's exercise on keeping one's beard dry while drinking under the moderately flowing stream. Evening classes for thirsting professors will be held.

Needless to say, the course is designed primarily for the red-blooded and enterprising of the student body and faculty. Prof. Stretchandgetit, interviewed this week under the most arid conditions on campus—in a walk through the campus buildings—cleared his throat, swallowed thrice, and declared in his usually moist voice (he is a master of his own subject) “All sissies not interested in my he-man course shall be urged to bring canteens to their classes. Of course, we reserve the right to inspect all liquids. As it is, with neither bubblers or a supply of paper cups available to everyone in any building, I urge all you who thirst after knowledge to come train with me.”

DR. PRINCE RESIGNS AS UNH PHYSICIAN

Dr. William M. Prince, who for the past four years has been the university physician in charge of Hood house, has resigned his position in order to conduct a private practice in Newport, N. H.

Dr. Prince is a New Hampshire alumnus, graduating in the class of 1927. He graduated from McGill University Medical School in 1932 and served his internship at Montreal General Hospital. He returned to his Alma Mater in September of 1933.

Dr. George McGregor of Durham has consented to take charge temporarily to fill the vacancy, pending the selection of a successor. Calls at the Hood House may be made as usual.

WILDCATS SELECT ALL-OPPONENT TEAM

With only one player, Butchka of St. Anselm, receiving a unanimous vote, the New Hampshire Wildcats selected their All-Opponent team at the Pep - Cat banquet Monday night.

Five of the seven teams which encountered New Hampshire during the past season were represented on the All Star club, and St. Anselm, the only eleven to defeat the Sauer men, led the others with four of their men being awarded places. The Manchester college was closely followed by Maine which had three men on the team.

The group selected by the twenty-eight lettermen is as follows:

Cooke, Bates—re; Zimmman, Tufts—rt; Obeck, Springfield—rg; Malio, St. Anselm—c; Hoffman, St. Anselm—lg; Gleason, Maine—lt; Hamlin, Maine—le; Morin, Bates—qb; Elliot, Maine—rqb; McLean, St. Anselm—lhb; Butchka, St. Anselm—fb.

Captain Eddie Little, who was asked to select an All-Opponent team of his own choosing, picked a slightly different aggregation. His line was identical, except that he preferred Sperandio of St. Anselm to Hoffman of the same team, at one of the guard positions. In the backfield, he selected Collier of Tufts for quarterback, and Smith of Maine rather than Elliot of Maine for a halfback post. The remainder of Captain Little's team was the same as that of his mates.

LUNDHOLM PREPARES FOR INTERSCHOLASTICS

The seventeenth annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament with Carl Lundholm serving as Supervisor for the tenth consecutive year, will be held in the University gymnasium on February 25 and 26, it was announced by William H. Cowell, Director of Athletics.

“Lundy” set the machinery for the classic in motion when he sent official notification of the dates to the headmasters of all the New Hampshire high schools.

Following the usual procedure, the teams entered in the tourney will be divided into two classes depending on the enrollment in the schools. Each division will consist of eight teams. A week before the tournament opens, and after the high school schedules are completed, the teams which are to compete will be selected.

It is expected that as usual, this year's tourney will attract a large audience and provide the customary fine competition.

WEATHER

Friday, 10 A.M.

The largest and most energetic mass of polar continental air to appear so far this season now controls the weather of the Atlantic seaboard. Though in the west, this polar mass has been somewhat modified, temperatures are still subnormal. Pressure is low over Alberta, but no well developed storm center appears there as yet.

Temperatures will rise as the polar air now over New England slowly modifies. Skies will become overcast as the Alberta storm moves eastward and some precipitation may fall. Temperatures will fall again before the weekend is over.

Just a few more notes about the past football season and we'll be able to put away in moth balls for a few months. All-Americans and all-opponent teams have been floating about for the past three weeks, so the Bull begs this opportunity to snort out its own particular selections for an all-opponent outfit. It tallies quite similarly with the team selected by the team at the Pep - Cat banquet the other night. Here it is: ends—Hamlin, Maine and Cooke, Bates; tackles—White, Vermont and Zimman, Tufts; guards—Obeck Springfield and Reidman, Maine; center, Malio, St. Anselm; quarterback, McLean, St. Anselm; halfbacks—Elliot, Me., and Collier, Tufts; fullback and captain, Butchka, St. Anselm.

Speaking of all-opponent team, New Hampshire has been well represented on the teams selected by our opponents of the past season. Th Bates outfit has selected three New Hampshire players on their team. Those chosen are: Al Montrone, tackle; Fritz Rosinski, center; and Burt Mitchell, halfback. Tufts selected Russ Martin whose educated toe defeated them 3-0 this year, as one tackle and of course Rosinski at center.

Fritz Rosinski has been chosen center by every team against which he played which has announced an all-opponent team this year, as far as we know now. Further than that, he was given honorable mention by Bill Cunningham, foremost authority of football in New England when he announced his all-American team last Monday. Cunningham is one of Collier's Board of All-American selection, which is recognized as the official all-American team. He has also received the distinction of being chosen center on Cunningham's all-New England team for 1937 which will be announced tonight on his weekly sports review. Thus with many honors coming to him, Fritz has wound up the most successful of his three years as a regular, and takes his well-deserved place among the immortal players of New Hampshire.

By the way we note where New Hampshire returns to Harvard's grid schedule after an absence of three years, when they play Harvard at the Stadium on November 18, 1939. The present crop of sophomores will then be seniors, and with eight lettermen in their class after only one season, its chances of victory over the crimson would seem to be quite fair, since Harvard has not had very much success with the sophomores the past year or so. However, two years is a long ways off, and much can happen in that time.

Coaches Hank Swasey and Jack Conroy are today in attendance at a meeting of the New England Collegiate basketball coaches, officials, and the N. E. I. C. A. A. basketball supervising committee at the Harvard Varsity club in Cambridge. At this meeting there will be an interpretation of the rules by Oswald Tower, editor of the rules book and a member of the rules committee. General discussion will follow the lecture and it is expected that the coaches will bring home some new ideas.

CONROY AND SWASEY REPRESENT SCHOOL

The University of New Hampshire will be represented at the meeting of New England basketball coaches and officials by Henry C. Swasey, head varsity hoop coach and John J. Conroy, mentor of the frosh basketball.

Scheduled to be held at the Harvard Varsity club in Cambridge on Dec. 3, the meeting will have as a speaker, Oswald Tower, editor of the basketball rule book, who will present an interpretation of the new court rules.

After the talk, a general discussion of topics for the good of collegiate basketball will be held.

As soon as there is a little ice, so that the hockey team can get under way, all the winter squads will be in full swing. Wednesday saw a record squad report to Paul Sweet for the winter track team and a large number have reported for the rifle team. First in action of the winter sports will be basketball, which has a game here next week against Lowell Textile.

CONROY CUTS FROSH BASKETBALL SQUAD

Under the direction of Coach Jack Conroy, the freshman basketball team is slowly taking shape. The crew of sixty which reported has been whittled down, so that there are only 29 now on the squad. The cut was necessary to make practices easier. The team is not as fast as was last year's aggregation, and there is some difficulty in finding a combination which will work well together. There is also trouble in holding practice sessions, with the first game only a week away.

The team which will probably start against New Hampton in the first home game of the season, is composed of Ray Lane, and Louis Cryans, forwards; Flaherty, center; Moffett and Klinge, guards. Among the others who are shaping up well are: Merrill, Robinson and Knox, forwards; Gowan and Bennett, centers; Bressette, Benjamin and Clark, guards.
